

Sins of Technology
By: Hazel Gay Lee © 2013

My Sweet Father,

Forgive me of my sins of texting. I learned the hard way what a sin it is to text someone else's husband. Though it was innocent at the beginning, it became a disaster in the end. A married man belongs to his wife and it is so easy to take a simple thing as texting and violate the trust and sacred bond of matrimony. I am so sorry, my sweet Father, to commit such a sin. I live in a world of technology. How can I keep my soul pure and use these devices for wrong? I can't. Wash me of my sins and forgive me Father. Forgive me husband and wife, for I have sinned against you. I am truly sorry and remorseful for my wrong doings. My intentions and desire was not to disrespect anyone, my Sweet Father, but I did. I did not mean to hurt and cause pain for anyone, but I did. I am truly sorry for my transgressions.

I live in a world where I am on the go and surrounded by temptations of all types. I have these devices to make my life easier to manage, and when I use them for good they produce good results. When I use them for wrong they produce devastating results. God please save me and my soul from such temptation again.

My Dear Father, I want to tell the world to not do what I did. Please do not intrude in the private life of a husband and wife by communicating with the opposite gender through these technical devices. It ends up at a place you will not want to be. I don't want to be here either. All the repenting words I utter will not heal and bring back what I lost. I lost my dear friends, and their entire family, who I deeply love. I disrespected them and myself. I disrespected you too, Sweet Father. I knew better but I did wrong. Forgive me of my sins.

Please Father, open up the hearts and souls of those who read these supplication unto thee so they will be moved with wisdom and not do what I have done and have to pay the price I am paying. What I lost is priceless. The price I am paying is painful and forever.

I love you Sweet Father and I love them. Please keep them safe in your arms for me.

My love to thee, Hazel Gay