

You and Me

By: Hazel Gay Lee ©2012

In the midst of life's mystique
You came my way and fulfilled my need
Lit up my eyes to sparkle bright
Guided our hearts so they could unite
Why and how, I can't explain
But my eyes light up at just your name
You fill my day and intrude my night
My heart melts at just your sight.
Our eyes lock and love's exchanged
Without a sound, without a name
In the midst of people, yet all alone
Our hearts unite and love is shown
While the world moves around us free
We stand still, just you and me
Our eyes lock. Our eyes don't lie
What we feel within we can't deny
Our love entwines, how can this be?
The world is blinded to you and me
Powerful love that can't be explained
Yet to resist or deny would be a shame
Touched by magic and free to be
The love we share, just you and me
Truly amazing! So alive and rare
Our beautiful love we feel and share.